NOTES FROM THE VINEYARD

The 2018 vintage started as a dry, yet cool, growing season. The vines broke from their buds in late February and early March, but flowering did not start until almost May. Cool spring conditions resulted in clusters filled with plump and juicy berries. Harvest was a bit slower due to cooler autumn days, and the extra time allowed us to develop structure and flavor in the palate while sugars and acids slowly evolved. Always the last of the fruit to come into the winery, Sauvignon Blanc from our estate Merino Vineyard has a unique complexity and aromatic bouquet that we were able to capture in this single vineyard bottling.
